Rocket League

Introduction

The Amazon UNIVERSITY Esports Masters (“UEM”) is an annual continental level competition between university students. Teams qualify through National Tournaments to compete in the UEM competition (“Competition”), these official rules apply to each of the Teams who have qualified to play in the UEM season 2024. These rules also apply to the Teams’ Team Managers & Team Members and other employees but apply only to official UEM play and not to other competitions, tournaments or organized play of Rocket League.

These official rules are designed solely to ensure the integrity of the system established by the UEM for organised competition of Rocket League and a competitive balance among the Teams that play at the university level. Standardized rules benefit all parties who are involved in the organised competition of Rocket League, including the Team Managers, Team Members and Teams.

To ensure the fairness and quality of these rules they have been reviewed and approved by the UNIVERSITY Esports Competition Committee. This committee consists of members from multiple countries and many years of experience managing competitions.

The terms of engagement between Team Managers, Team Members and Teams are left to each of the Teams and its Team Managers/Members.

GG Tech Entertainment S.L., a limited liability company registered in Spain, has established these rules for the competitive play of Amazon UNIVERSITY Esports Masters in order to unify and standardize the rules used in competitive play.

This is intended to give teams that have played more matches to qualify for the UEM the advantage of playing fewer games during the qualification stages for the Play-offs.

9.3.1.1.1. The ranking of each country will be published ahead of the seeding being determined.
